1. Claims 2-5 and 8-11 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on January 3, 2005.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1, 6, and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamane. Yamane discloses the claimed invention except for the order of the evaporator 11 and heat exchanger 11A. The order of the evaporator and heat exchanger is considered to be a matter of obvious choice to one of ordinary skill in the art, because no criticality or unexpected results are seen or have been disclosed for the arrangement of the refrigerant flowing into the evaporator first and then through the heat exchanger. Furthermore, one of ordinary skill in the refrigeration art would be able to switch around the flow order of the refrigerant through the evaporator 11 and heat exchanger 11A without undue experimentation. Also, the type of fluid cooled is a matter of obvious choice.

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
